

STRIKERS AWAITING CRASH WITH GUARD

Lull Presages Another Pitched Battle at Bayonne Oil Plant.

(Continued from First Page.)

thirty-foot strip of Twenty-second street, the heart of the strike zone, with a withering leaden hail. That thirty-foot strip was "No Man's Land," over which but a few of the hardy ones dared cross.

Small children, however, played about the danger zone, peering around corners and enjoying the "fun" immensely. The police made no effort to stop the firing, or to get the children out of the way. It was here that two men fell dead and a half dozen others dropped from the fire of the company's guards.

The authorities admitted today they did not know how many had been injured. The tenements of the strikers are almost within the shadow of the factory walls, and it is thought many more were hit and instead of being hurried to the hospital, were smuggled into the homes and their wounds treated.

The calling of State troops seemed imminent this morning. Sheriff Kinkead, with a force of deputies, was on the scene, but he admitted he and his men could do but little in the event the strikers and guards began a repetition of yesterday's battles. Governor Fielder has promised to hurl the troops into the "war zone" on an hour's notice.

There were many guns among the strikers today. The absence of guns with which to return the fire of the guards was a handicap keenly felt by the strikers yesterday, and they utilized last night to get a supply from New York, Jersey City, and nearby towns.

There was an exciting skirmish between the guards and strikers shortly before dawn today. One guard was reported injured. None of the strikers was hit, so far as could be learned.

Efforts to remove the barricades placed across the Twenty-second street car line, which traverses the middle of the strike zone, were futile.

20,000 Garment Workers Threaten to Walk Out in the Next Two Days

NEW YORK, July 23.—Sidney Hilman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, has announced that if the independent children's jacket manufacturers do not grant the demands of the workers by noon today 10,000 jacket makers will strike.

Vice president Joseph Schlosberg of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America said that the strike of the children's jacket makers is to be followed by a strike of 10,000 workers on men's clothing in independent shops in case their demands are not granted by tomorrow.

An agreement similar to the one effected between the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the American Clothing Manufacturers Association was made yesterday by representatives of the children's jacket makers' unions and the Children's Clothing Manufacturers Association. The agreement affects 8,000 workers.

Clothing trade representatives said yesterday that the clothing strikes in this city will be followed by a general strike movement of clothing workers involving 100,000 men and women in the eastern, Baltimore and other clothing trade centers.

I. W. W. Leaders Say 5,000 Longshoremen Will Go Out in N. Y.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The I. W. W. committee in charge of the strike of longshoremen at North river piers 36, 37, 45, and 46 has announced that there would be 900 longshoremen on strike today at the Savannah line pier, 36, and 2,000 at the Old Dominion pier, 35 and 36. The committee went yesterday to the Erie basin, Brooklyn, to get the longshoremen loading the San Marcos to strike.

The committee said that after the tie-up at the Savannah and Old Dominion piers it would begin a campaign to get 10,000 longshoremen and teachers to strike along the entire waterfront, in addition to 15,000 seamen and marine firemen.

The committee will call on the president of the Clyde and Mallory lines, H. H. Raymond, to find out if he will grant the demands of the strikers. He said yesterday that he had 600 strike breakers working on the piers and would have 800 more at work today.

The Schmitts' Detective Agency yesterday furnished 25 strike breakers and 200 Italians from New Jersey were marched to the piers. The strike breakers were provided with breakfast and potatoes on the piers, and will be quartered there until the strike ends. The steamship Apache, which was scheduled to sail yesterday, will sail tomorrow.

No Troops Needed For Bayonne Strike, Says Gov. Fielder

TRENTON, N. J., July 23.—Governor Fielder, at the Statehouse today, declared that the situation about the plant of the Standard Oil works at Bayonne has so much improved, according to his advisers, that he does not appear that the guard will have to be summoned.

"Bayonne had a very peaceful night, and this morning the conditions were very quiet," said the executive. "There is a guard of some 700 men on duty in the strike zone, including 500 men engaged by the Standard Oil and the 200 special deputies of the county, and, in addition, I understand that Sheriff Kinkead has called on the municipalities of Hudson county to let him have their surplus police officers for strike duty."

The governor declared that the local officials at Bayonne had laid down in a panic and put the matter of curbing the rioters up to the State authorities. "When we took hold there did not seem to be any attempt on the part of the city authorities to get the ring-leaders, and I was not willing to send the militia until we had made an independent investigation," said the executive, who also stated that he told Sheriff Kinkead that he should not apply for troops until every means of disposal of the county officials for stopping the disturbances had been utilized.

The governor said he believed a State constabulary force like that possessed by Pennsylvania would have quickly stopped the trouble at Bayonne. The executive refused to comment on the report that the mayor of Bayonne, Pierre Garven, is a legal representative of the Standard Oil Company.

The governor dwelt upon the seriousness of calling out the militia and declaring martial law. He said several thousand men should not be taken from their homes and business to perform riot duty unless the situation that called for them was very grave.

Adjutant General William Sadler, who went to the scene of the disturbance at the request of Governor Fielder, is expected back at the Statehouse here this afternoon.

STRIKERS IN BATTLE WITH DEPUTIES AT BAYONNE OIL PLANTS

This remarkable photograph was taken in Bayonne during one of the many conflicts between strikers and guards. The strikers are seen in the act of throwing stones and one, in the foreground, is reaching for his revolver. Interest attached to the picture is not at all lessened by the fact that newspaper photographers are decidedly unpopular with the strikers. One was quite badly handled yesterday.

MISS BOARDMAN IS IN DEFENSE LEAGUE

Congressional Union for Suffrage Will Present Her Name for Advisory Board of Navy.

Publication of the statements that Miss Mabel Boardman is a member of the Navy League and of the woman's branch of the National Defense League caused surprise among many who regarded the connection of the head of the American Red Cross with societies advocating armament increase as a paradox.

Miss Boardman explained today. She said she did not believe in militarism, but that she does believe in preparedness.

On the heels of these announcements regarding her connection with the organizations which advocate a greater measure of preparedness came the statement from the Congressional Union for the Woman Suffrage that Miss Boardman's name was to be suggested by them for the civilian advisory board of the navy.

"Of course I should not accept such a position," Miss Boardman said. "And I had not heard that my name had been suggested in that connection."

As to her connection with the Navy League, she explained that she knew little of the league's purposes, and that she simply had been notified by that league as well as the national defense body that she was a member.

"I certainly do not intend to devote any time to the work of either body," she said. "As for the appointment on a naval board I could not think of that, for if war should come to this country, I should consider the work to be done in connection with preparing the Red Cross for its work as equally important with plans for defense. And the Red Cross work would keep me busy."

Sees Women Snipers.

LONDON, July 23.—Writing from Malta, Private J. Seaby, Royal Fusiliers, told of Turkish women snipers, their clothing, faces, and rifles painted green to obscure them in the foliage.

King an Aviator.

MADRID, July 23.—King Alfonso of Spain has become an aviation enthusiast, and frequently takes long trips on a military dirigible.

Two Girls In Race To Dying Soldier

Sister and Fiancee of Lieut. Cassels Buchanan, Wounded in France, Sail for England.

NEW YORK, July 23.—Just before the Cunard liner Orduna sailed for Liverpool two young women and an agitated man of middle age raced down the pier. Dragging the luggage they had hastily pulled out of a taxicab, they gained the deck by a narrow margin.

Tearfully bidding good-bye to the young women the man rushed back over the gangway just in time to prevent being taken out with the ship. Standing at the edge of the pier dejectedly watching the steamship going seaward and trying to get his breath, he related the following story:

He is Charles Jeffery. One of the young women is his daughter, Grace, and the other Miss Ruth Buchanan. They are from Ottawa, Canada, where Wednesday they were living in comparative repose when they received from England a cablegram that Lieutenant Cassels Buchanan, of the Fifth (Canadian) Engineers, was dying from shrapnel wounds suffered in northern France.

Lieutenant Buchanan is the brother of Miss Buchanan. Miss Jeffery is his fiancée. The cablegram said the wounded lieutenant had been taken to William Waldorf Astor's estate, in Cliveden, on the Thames.

His leg had been amputated, but a particularly malignant infection has set in, and the surgeons do not believe he will live more than ten days. The cablegram advised that the sister and fiancée might arrive before he died.

At 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon they caught a train out of Ottawa. It was after 8 o'clock when they reached the Grand Central terminal yesterday morning, less than an hour before the Orduna sailed.

Insects From Canada Have Invaded Cleveland

CLEVELAND, July 23.—Canadians have invaded Cleveland. War is on in deadly earnest. The entire city is up in arms and fighting desperately.

Thousands upon thousands of the invaders are rushing here across Lake Erie.

The Canadian warriors are of the insect variety, and their invasion is an annual unpleasantness to which the city never has become reconciled.

"Bloody War" Signs.

LA GRANDE, Ind., July 23.—Farmers notice that the wheat blades bear a big "W" and the oat blades a big "B." These signs were seen prior to the civil war, any the oldest residents, and mean "bloody war."

MORE NAVY YARDS MAY JOIN STRIKE

General Walkout Is Feared Unless the President Restores Old Wage Scale.

(Continued from First Page.)

this morning Mr. Alfais was plainly elated over what is considered a virtual victory for the men there. He declined to make any definite statement about the action of other navy yards and gun factories in the event of a strike here.

"I have not definitely said to anyone that there will be a strike here," Mr. Alfais explained. "I did not wish to seem to hold a threat over the head of the President. I do not mind saying that a strike will be extremely imminent in case we do not get satisfaction. It is also likely that we will get the support of other machinists in the government employ all over the country, though what form that support will take I am not at liberty to state at this time."

Machinists officers here, as well as federation leaders, were elated today over the concession of the eight-hour day to thousands of laborers at Bridgeport. They are much more rejoiced over the shorter day than over the wage increase, because the concession of an eight-hour day in Bridgeport is expected to set a precedent in Connecticut, which is the only New England State where the nine and ten hour day still prevails.

The victory even assumes a national-wide aspect, in that it has led to munitions and supplies for the allies are concerned. The fact that the Gompers and Secretary Morrison are in Bridgeport today, conferring with machinists as well as a number of leaders of allied trade bodies, despite the fact that the machinists have won their fight at the Remington plant, was pointed out here as an indication that a general campaign to obtain a share of the war-time profits for laborers would be prosecuted.

Indicates Campaign.

The strike of 5,000 unorganized men at the Bayonne oil works, where organization has been bitterly fought, is believed to indicate that a carefully planned campaign was mapped and begun by the American Federation of Labor and international unions months ago.

Neither President Gompers nor Secretary Morrison even partially confirmed them Tuesday.

Strike situations at Bethlehem and Carnegie steel plants, according to Secretary Morrison, will not be surprising. Gary, Indiana, is believed to be a field ripe with labor possibilities.

Secrecy and silence, however, mark organized labor's every move just now. Future plans are guarded with extreme care.

The labor leaders' conference at Bridgeport today is believed to have direct bearing upon the 9,000 girl cartridge makers there who are working ten hours for $1.

Another Kind Jailer.

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 23.—Famous prison keepers have nothing on W. W. Caldwell, warden of the Dauphin county jail, when it comes to kindness. The jail shuts on the county court house, a few feet away, and Caldwell regularly lets good prisoners play baseball in the yard. A few days ago a foul ball smashed through a big window in the office of President Judge George Kunkele, and repairs cost $6.40. But Caldwell merely had the prisoners put up a net to prevent future accidents and called "Play ball!"

SULLIVAN RESIGNS AS AMERICAN ENVOY

Name of New Minister to Dominican Republic May Be Announced Monday.

James M. Sullivan, American minister to the Dominican Republic, against whom charges of "unfitness in office" were filed about a year ago, has resigned, and his resignation, it is understood, has been accepted.

Announcement of the name of his successor probably will be made next Monday when, it is said, Secretary of State Lansing will make public the report of Senator-elect James D. Phelan, of California, who was appointed a special commissioner by President Wilson to investigate the Sullivan charges.

Sullivan was charged among other things with using his position as minister to the Dominican Republic, over which the United States exercises a sort of financial suzerainty, to further the interests of his friends, some of whom, it was alleged, were interested in having the Banco Nacional in Santo Domingo City selected as the depository of the public works fund. The charges were made by Walker H. Vick, of New Jersey, a former assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee, who had resigned the post of director of public works in the Dominican Republic.

A sensational feature of the investigation was the publication of a letter written to Sullivan by the then Secretary of State, William J. Bryan, in which the latter, discussing jobs available for Americans in the Dominican government, declared that he favored the selection, as far as possible, of "deserving Democrats."

Sullivan was charged among other things with using his position as minister to the Dominican Republic, over which the United States exercises a sort of financial suzerainty, to further the interests of his friends, some of whom, it was alleged, were interested in having the Banco Nacional in Santo Domingo City selected as the depository of the public works fund. The charges were made by Walker H. Vick, of New Jersey, a former assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee, who had resigned the post of director of public works in the Dominican Republic.

A sensational feature of the investigation was the publication of a letter written to Sullivan by the then Secretary of State, William J. Bryan, in which the latter, discussing jobs available for Americans in the Dominican government, declared that he favored the selection, as far as possible, of "deserving Democrats."

Sullivan was charged among other things with using his position as minister to the Dominican Republic, over which the United States exercises a sort of financial suzerainty, to further the interests of his friends, some of whom, it was alleged, were interested in having the Banco Nacional in Santo Domingo City selected as the depository of the public works fund. The charges were made by Walker H. Vick, of New Jersey, a former assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee, who had resigned the post of director of public works in the Dominican Republic.

A sensational feature of the investigation was the publication of a letter written to Sullivan by the then Secretary of State, William J. Bryan, in which the latter, discussing jobs available for Americans in the Dominican government, declared that he favored the selection, as far as possible, of "deserving Democrats."

Sullivan was charged among other things with using his position as minister to the Dominican Republic, over which the United States exercises a sort of financial suzerainty, to further the interests of his friends, some of whom, it was alleged, were interested in having the Banco Nacional in Santo Domingo City selected as the depository of the public works fund. The charges were made by Walker H. Vick, of New Jersey, a former assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee, who had resigned the post of director of public works in the Dominican Republic.

A sensational feature of the investigation was the publication of a letter written to Sullivan by the then Secretary of State, William J. Bryan, in which the latter, discussing jobs available for Americans in the Dominican government, declared that he favored the selection, as far as possible, of "deserving Democrats."

Sullivan was charged among other things with using his position as minister to the Dominican Republic, over which the United States exercises a sort of financial suzerainty, to further the interests of his friends, some of whom, it was alleged, were interested in having the Banco Nacional in Santo Domingo City selected as the depository of the public works fund. The charges were made by Walker H. Vick, of New Jersey, a former assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee, who had resigned the post of director of public works in the Dominican Republic.

A sensational feature of the investigation was the publication of a letter written to Sullivan by the then Secretary of State, William J. Bryan, in which the latter, discussing jobs available for Americans in the Dominican government, declared that he favored the selection, as far as possible, of "deserving Democrats."

Sullivan was charged among other things with using his position as minister to the Dominican Republic, over which the United States exercises a sort of financial suzerainty, to further the interests of his friends, some of whom, it was alleged, were interested in having the Banco Nacional in Santo Domingo City selected as the depository of the public works fund. The charges were made by Walker H. Vick, of New Jersey, a former assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee, who had resigned the post of director of public works in the Dominican Republic.

Between us Men

Don't Forget—G & 11th

Suits That Were $14.50 Up $9.75

Mohair, Serge and English Tweed Suits, the easy, breezy skeleton lined, but reliably tailored suits that you can wear until November—all join this July clearance sale. You can't find a suit that was less than $14.50—and many were more. Remember that this is a real clearing sale and not a purchase of garments made for "a sale." Comparisons will tell you the differences. The suits here are on street floor near the door of the New Men's Shop, G street, two doors east of Eleventh.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with this New Boys' Shop $5.00 Suits—you to be the judge of durability and we to give a new suit if you are dissatisfied.

The Economy of Two Suits

The sturdy but lightweight English Tweed Norfolk Suits with two pairs of knickerbockers for everyday wear—and a True Blue Serge Suit with one pair of knickerbockers for best wear.

Tom—"That suit of yours makes you quite an Adonis."

Harry—"Whether you are joking or not, I don't care, but I am serious when I tell you it cost me only $9.75."

"I'll Get One Tomorrow"

George—"Tell me where to go and I'll get one tomorrow."

Harry—"Go to the Palais Royal's New Shop for Men's Clothing. You needn't be afraid, it's a distinct shop with no petticoats in sight."

$5.00 Suits $3.95

The guarantee as always given with